A comprehensive resource for implementing and facilitating a men's family relationship group program.

The "Me & My Family" manual contains guidelines for establishing a group, selecting participants and running the group sessions. See the table of contents on right for details.

The program is ideal for family relationship agencies and others who work with men who are considered "difficult" to engage. The sessions are designed to encourage the men to talk in ways that promote increased empathy, responsibility and appreciation for all their family relationships. A balance of discussion and activities is used to achieve this. Call us to find out about "Me & My Family" facilitator training.
